Tenacity at Ten Gala
Celebrated in Style

On October 15, over 700 guests joined Tenacity’s staff and kids to celebrate ten years of successful after school and summer programs which are provided to Boston’s at-risk youth.

The event was held at Longwood Cricket Club in Chestnut Hill, where Tenacity supporters gathered to enjoy a festive evening on the beautiful grounds of the fabled club.

The evening’s cold winds and rain were greeted with warmth and energy around Tenacity’s ten years of keeping Boston kids in school. Everyone enjoyed fabulous food, inspiring stage performances and speeches, live music, dancing and mingling with the many celebrities who shared their time and talent with us.

Chaired by Bill and Ali Achtmeyer, with Fidelity as the lead sponsor, there were a host of VIPs including Bud Collins; Emily Rooney of WGBH; Jorge Quiroga, Mike Dowling, and Karen Ward Holmes of WCVB; Chris Collins of NECN; former ATP pro Katrina Adams; Gordon Smith, Executive Director and COO of the USTA; and Anne and Jim Davis, Chairman and CEO of New Balance.

Thanks to their efforts and that of so many there, including an anonymous donor who matched the auction dollars raised, the net revenue generated for Tenacity exceeded $420K!

The following day a Tenacity at Ten tennis event was held at Harvard’s Murr Center for the Gala sponsors. Several of our generous supporters, both individual and corporate, gathered to play with former pros Katrina Adams, Tim Mayotte and our own Bud Schultz.

Longwood’s Director of Tennis, Larry Wolfe, coordinated the round robin, which gave several Tenacity kids an opportunity to play tennis with the pros and sponsors.

Thank you to all who have contributed to Tenacity at Ten either by attending, volunteering or supporting us. We hope to see you at our upcoming events planned for Spring 2010.

A special thanks to our media partner WCVB TV

Each year, Tenacity measures students’ progress in literacy and tennis at the start and end of the school year. This data proves beneficial in showing where we are successful and where we can improve.

In September, our ASEP* tennis coordinators implemented a new Wellness initiative focusing on physical fitness in addition to playing tennis. Adapted from the USTA’s Fitness Testing Protocol, it focuses on four core categories: cardiovascular; flexibility; strength and endurance; and speed and agility. Rope ladders, jump ropes, reaction balls and plyometric hurdles are now a part of the tennis curriculum, along with strength training, push-ups and sit-ups.

Also new is the USTA’s Quick-Start Tennis system which gets more kids playing on each court by using foam balls, reduced sized racquets and mini-nets, resulting in more physical activity, faster learning for beginners, more fun after school and improved attendance.

Enhancements in the literacy curriculum are also proving successful with 95% tested showing improvement after one year with us. According to Gary Phillips, Director of School Year Programs, “We have implemented a stronger curriculum that improves the students’ proficiency in reading comprehension, vocabulary development and analysis of reading passages. We’re able to do this with a game-based approach which keeps the kids coming.”

We anticipate positive results in our measurements at the end of this school year.

New ‘Coach’ Role for Volunteers—No Tennis Experience Required

Want to get more involved with Tenacity’s High School Kids?

Share the importance of education, of fitness, of perseverance?

Impart your life’s experience onto an urban teen who is navigating the world and would benefit from your experience?

Teach an eager high school student about your career, education and hobbies?

If your answer is YES, we have a role for you. Become a Tenacity Coach!

We will pair you up with a Tenacity high school freshman – a graduate of ASEP* who persevered, is making the commitment to succeed in school and will benefit from a role model to open doors and expose her or him to what life offers.

Just imagine the possibilities when you share your time, talent and wisdom.

To inquire about our Alumni Coaching Program, contact Stephanie Gendron at 617-562-0900 x41 or AlumniServices@Tenacity.org.

* Footnote: ASEP is Tenacity’s After School Excellence Program for Middle School Students.
For ten consecutive summers, Tenacity has run a 6-week Summer Tennis and Reading Program (STRP) in July and August. This season over 3,000 children and teenagers read books, honed literacy skills, learned the basics of tennis and even competed in matches at 22 Boston parks in our newly structured program.

Significant changes were implemented and managed by our Summer Director and USPTA Development Coach, Ron Casados. Those included splitting the day by age group, where 6 – 10 year olds participated in the morning and 11-16 year olds in the afternoon. According to Andy Crane, who has played a significant role at Tenacity since its inception in 1999, “The kids and staff alike benefited by our delivery of age appropriate activities. This had an enormous impact in the quality of the experience for all the kids, and we were able to serve six year olds for the first time.”

How did we excite those youngsters about books and teach them to play tennis?

• The QuickStart Tennis format, from the USTA, uses large foam balls, smaller racquets and lower nets to get kids playing within minutes of being introduced to a racquet. With games and activities designed to improve agility, balance and coordination, our kids progressed from simple swings to long rallies.

• Many of Tenacity’s local partner programs paid visits to summer sites and enhanced our mission to inspire children and teens to read and write. Participants at some sites enjoyed the performances of ReadBoston’s Storymobile, a group of oral storytellers catering to elementary students. In addition to recreating Irish, African and Latin American folklore, Storymobile gave free picture books to our kids.

• Several of our ‘tweens and teens competed in Team Tennis matches that pitted Tenacity’s sites against one another. Weekly singles and doubles matches culminated in the summer-ending Mayor’s Cup Tournament. The winning Tenacity site? Billings Field in West Roxbury!

Summer families were given the option to pay for the program (on a sliding scale) or to participate at no charge. Over $40,000 was raised to help fund the STRP.

Tenacity recognizes the following organizations for making STRP a success:

New Balance Corporation for outfitting our summer staff and kids; Boston Parks and Recreation for its 10 years of commitment; Boston Youth Fund which pays the salaries for our summer staff and provides equipment; Boston Centers for Youth and Families; and the State Department of Conservation and Recreation.

And a very special thanks for her years of service at Tenacity to Amy Cluff, former STRP Admin. Coordinator.

Worcester Kids

Enjoy Tenacity Summer Program

Thanks to the efforts of some high energy, socially minded volunteers like Ellen Ferrante of Worcester, over 400 kids in the second largest city in Massachusetts have been enjoying their summers on the tennis courts and reading under the shade of a tree for the past two summers. According to Ellen, after first hearing about Tenacity, “I knew that kids in Worcester would love the combination of tennis and summer reading,” so she approached Ned Eames with the idea of bringing the program to central Mass.

The Worcester summer program is currently offered in three city locations: Newton Square, Crompton Park and Clark University and is modeled after the Boston program, serving kids aged 6–16 for six weeks.

Funding for Worcester comes directly from initiatives that Ellen and others have generated with local corporations, foundations, and individuals. Collaborations with Worc. Park and Rec, Boys and Girls Club, Clark Univ. and the Worc. Housing Authority have significantly contributed to the program’s success.

Tenacity is now looking to hire the right individual to step in and run the Worcester initiative. If interested, please email your resume to ianschneiderman@tenacity.org.

Our AmeriCorps team has grown by leaps and bounds. Thanks to the Massachusetts Service Alliance, Tenacity has been awarded 18 talented AmeriCorps Members this year—up from 12 last year! Sixteen of our Members are serving in ASEP, assisting in both tennis and literacy for middle school students. The other two are serving in the Alumni Services program by providing direction to the 200 high school students and graduates of ASEP to whom we continue to offer services. Come see us in action at our after school sites.

Giving Report for Fiscal Year 2009

This report lists gifts received by Tenacity from September 2008 through August 2009. This list does not include gifts received for our Tenacity at Ten Gala held on October 15, 2009, or any gifts received after September 1, 2009.
Baldwin/Clancy/Rogan Advertising has been a behind-the-scenes partner of Tenacity’s for many years. Responsible for virtually all our marketing materials, they have generously worked on a pro-bono basis, developing everything from our 10-year logo and brochure to our complete Gala invitation, program guide, and accompanying campaign. Remember Rubbing Tennis Elbows and other clever invitations from Tenacity? That is the creative work of BCR. Here’s a link to the work they’ve done for us in recent years: www.bcradvertising.com/tenacity.

Boston Color Graphics has managed the production of Tenacity’s direct mail, marketing materials and event collateral. BCG specializes in providing solutions for data-driven and on-demand printing. Their services range from strategy, design and data management to printing, fulfillment and mailing. In addition to working with nonprofits like Tenacity, BCG provides services to customers in higher-education, financial, high-tech and retail markets. BCG has generously provided their services to Tenacity pro bono. You can find them at www.bostoncolorgraphics.com.
